Stand up for Comedy with Aron Kader & Papa CJ 12th September

by Sahar Adil / 08. September 2009

The first Big Laugh Festival, conceptualized and organized by Percept D'Mark takes place in Bangalore on the 12th of September 2009 at Jyoti Nivas Auditorium

The show opens with Papa Cj, and followed by Aaron Kader in Bangalore.

If you like your comedians worldly, Papa CJ is right up your alley. This funny Indian export's stand-up has been likened to that of an Indian Chris Rock – full of attitude, energy and caustic observations about society. He has sold-out not just his tours in India, but performances across North America, Europe, Africa and Asia. His international exposure reached new heights when he became a top ten finalist in NBC's Last Comic Standing. His cutting edge wit and social commentary is said to represent the rising voice of a billion people.

Aron Kader is a comedian based in Hollywood at the Comedy Store and a founding member of The Axis Of Evil Comedy Tour. After quickly rising up the ranks in the stand-up circuits, he spent a year in the legendary sketch theatre, "The Groundlings" Sunday Company, and now performs regularly in Hollywood. According to the New York Times, the comedians(The Axis of Evil) "wield jokes as a weapon against prejudice."

According to Mr Manuj Agarwal, COO, Percept D'Mark, "The main idea is to bring international stand up comedians from around the globe that will appeal to the evolving Indian sense of humor. Besides providing entertainment through international artists the Big Laugh also looks at promoting budding English comedians from India in order to make this a mainstream genre of entertainment".

The first Big Laugh Festival will see three renowned international making their way to India : Sugar Sammy , Aaron Kader and Papa CJ who are well known for their signature styles of laugh acts. Apart from the main show days, on the anvil are plans to have stand up comedy workshops, club gigs and a talent hunt as well..
